POEMS

UPON

Various Occasions.

Written for the Entertainment

OF THE AUTHOR,

And Printed for the Amusement

Of a few

FRIENDS,

Prejudic'd in his Favour.

Contentus paucis Lectoribus. Hor.

OXFORD

Printed by Leon. Liebfield near Eaft. Gare, 1737.

Me

PI

I ha Mai thef

Acc most of N I ner have ract tion

pecu fome who

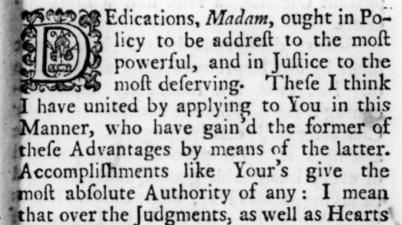

in ft

PREFATORY DEDICATION,

TO

Mrs

of Mankind.

I intended here, Madam, after the Manner of other well-meaning Dedicators, to have given some Sketches of Your Character. Not so much from the Ostentation of my Art in describing, as of the peculiar Diligence I have used in observing it. An indifferent Painter may trace some Features of his Sov'reign's Face, whose Loyalty has render'd him accurate in studying the Original--- Besides, Twere A 2 hard a Lady of Your Perfections shou'd be the only one exempted from the Pleasure of being acquainted with 'em. 'Tis true, You have a quick Eye, and penetrating Judgment in distinguishing both natural, and moral Beauties: But You must inevitably remain a Stranger to the greatest, were it not for the Assistance of those important Utensils, a Poet and a Looking-Glass.

'Twere dangerous indeed You might fuffer by any Representation I am capable of. But 'twas not Incapacity alone difcourag'd me. There is something in Your Character vastly disadvantageous to any that attempts it. To proclaim You possess'd of every imaginable good Quality, wou'd be faying it was Day, when the Sun shines in its Meridian. As for Your Faults, (if You have any,) they indeed are far enough from being liable to the former Exception: but the extreme Difficulty I shou'd have found in felecting a few minute ones, (And some I must have selected, if possible, as the Shades of my Piece;) together with the small Share of Credit I shou'd have gain'd in the World, dis-hearten'd me. Such indeed were my only Objections. Unless I may adjoin this, that to Strangers your real and genuine Character must have pass'd pass' for, ackn Sun' fion. thou wou' You You.

You, clare nius. the ! like : the then App you tend lette. the But a N ther ever bly havi fide Har

had

d be afure true, ating ural, neviitest, imight able diflour that efs'd ou'd ines (if ugh on:

ave and as with

me. ons. ers

ave s'd pass'd for Flattery. I say to Strangers, for, where you are known, You must be acknowledg'd incapable of it: As the Sun's Brightness can be set off by no Allusion. Hence, in short, I laid aside all thoughts of a Portraiture. Those, that wou'd love You as You deserve, must know You; as necessarily, as those, who know You, must consequently love You.

As to the Poetry, I beg Leave to declare, that 'tis the Product of a young Genius, little exercis'd in Versification. And the Muses, you know, Madam, are not like a great many of their Sex, that have the most Esteem for those, who neglect them; tho' they have had fometimes, in Appearance. Horace, and Swift (whom to you I wou'd chuse to mention) have attended them whole Mornings at their Toilette, that they might conduct them into the World, in a more agreeable Undress. But my Negligences, Madam, are of such a Nature, that I must beg you'd impute them to Disuse and Inexperience. However, by this Confession, I may probably put you in Mind of a Lady, who, having thrum'd over a Spinnet for a confiderable Space, without the least shew of Harmony, took much pains to prove she had never play'd before. 'Tis with an

Au-

Author much the same as with a Sportsman; Hippolitus may excuse his Ill-success Motto to himself, and, perhaps justly alledge several alleviating Circumstances; But in vain may he attempt his vindication to the World. That has been fo frequently deluded by these Apologies, that it has made it a Rule to fix the Fault upon the Marksman.

I indeed ever despair'd of affording much entertainment this way to a Lady of your refin'd Taste: And I'm positive, that Indolence, has with me prov'd, and always will do, more than a Ballance to any other Ambition. This is my only Encouragement, that, as one almost infensibly conforms to a taste one very much admires, I can't but think these Trisles won't prove absolutely disagreeable to Your's.

You'll perhaps find other Names in these Pages, than that, which includes all that's agreeable, and is indeed the most comprehensive word that is; I mean your own. But as there is some thing mean in an averfion to the Praises of another, or a continual Apprehension of being rival'd, which I take to be it's original; I'm secure of giving You no uneafinefs. Especially, fince a Lady of Your Merit may give all others infinitely more than their due, without the least Shadow of Danger.

Gly di You c with quity, Critic As th Piece

the Fu

of M

Ne

Ias

those additi fhou'c lous, And f Pope's much me to

April

Task Pardon for the Pedantry of Latin ccels Mottoes and Quotations: But You may eafly dispense with the loss of them, whether You consider them, merely as a Compliance with custom, or as certain scraps of Antiquity, to indemnify the Poet with those Critic's, who approve only what's ancient. As there are some, who fix a tutelary Piece of Iron on their Thresholds, to elude the Fury of Ill-defigning Spirits.

Next to the happiness of being posses'd of Merit, is to shew one's Approbation of those who are; And this is really no small addition to a Man's Character. So that, shou'd these Papers appear ever so ridiculous, I shall value them on one Account; And shou'd their Fame prove equal to Mr. Pope's, I shou'd value them on none so much as that; which is, that they enable me to declare openly how much I am,

MADAM,

Your most Obedient

Humble Servant.

April 29th, 17374

orts

e fet in

the de-nade

rks-ding

ly of tive,

and any cou-cones, I cove

hefe

at's ore-

wn. er-

onich

of nce ers the

The U

Deb

Her

For Spri

POEMS

Upon

Various Occasions.

The Speeches of SLOTH and VIRTUE: Upon the Plan of Xenophon's Judgment of Hercules.

SLOTH.

ITHER, dear Boy, direct thy wandring Eyes,

'Tis here the lovely Vale of Pleafure lies.

Debate no more --- to me thy felf refign;
Her mossy Caves, her Groves, and all are mine.
For me the Goddess opes her various Pow'r,
Springs in a Tree, or blossems in a Flow'r:

To please my Ear she breaths celestial Strains : To please my Eye, with Lillier ftrews the Plains: To form my Couch in mostly Beds the grows: To gratify my Smell she blooms a Rose. Oft' in some Nymph the Deity I find, Where in one Form the various Sweets are join'd. Yield but to me, --- a Choir of Nymphs shall rife, And with the blooming Sight regale thy Eyes: Their beauteous Cheeks a fairer Rose shall wear, A brighter Lilly in their Necks appear : Thou on their Breafts thy wearied Head recline, Nor at the Swan's less pleasing Nest repine : Whilft Philomel in each foft Voice complains, And gently lulls thee with her dying Strains : Whilft spicy Gums round each fair Bosom glow; And in each Accent myrihy Odours flow.

For thee with softest Art the Dome shall rife,
And spiring Turrets glitter thro' the Skies.
For thee the Robe shall glow with purple Rays;
The Side-board sparkle, and gilt Chariot blaze,
In brilliant Mines, be other Hands employ'd,
So the gay Product be by thine enjoy'd.
For thee she Poplan shall her Amber drain:
For thee in clouded Beauty spring the Cane.

To pl To for t And

Nor Some To g

Or fi

0

And

Prefe

And To To the Plea

Wh

The

Nov

To please thy Taste shall Gallia prune the Vine:
To swell thy Treasures India sink the Mine.
For thee each Nations nicer Stores shall grow,
And ev'ry Wind some lovely Tribute blow.

ns:

'd.

fe,

٢,

e, w;

To

Learning shall ne'er molest thy tranquil Reign,
Nor Science puzzle thy inactive Brain:
Sometimes perhaps thy Fancy take her Wing
To grace a Fan, or celebrate a Ring:
Fix various Dyes to suit each varying Mien:
Prescribe where Patches shou'd in Crouds be seen:
Or sigh soft Strains along the vocal Grove,
And tell the Charms, the sweet Effects of Love!

Or if more specious Ease thy Care shou'd claim,
And thy Breast glow with faint Desire of Fame,
Some trivial Science shall thy Thoughts amuse;
And Learning's Name a solemn Sound disfuse.
To Thee all Nature's shelly Store I'll bring,
To thee the Sparklings on the Insect's Wing.
Pleasure in infant Forms shalt thou descry;
View, in an Ant, or hear her in a Fly;
When near thy Path, as oft as Spring appears,
The sportive Goddess buzzes round thy Ears a
Now in some Pebble's curious Vein is seen,
Or on some Leaf bestows unusual Green.

B 2

Then

Then Sleep shall wrap thee in her downy Arms, And round thy weary'd Head diffuse her Charms; I est growing Pride thy peaceful Schemes o'erthrow, And Thought succeed, --- my most destructive Foe. The watry Nymphs shall tune the tinkling Vales, And gentle Zephyrs harmonize their Gales: For thy repose instruct, with Rival Joy, Their Streams to murmur, and their Winds to sigh.

Thus shalt thou spend the sweetly-slowing Day,
Till lost in Bliss thou breath thy Soul away:
How easy a Transition should'st thou find,
Were to thy Fate Annihilation join'd!

VIRTUE.

PLY, fly, fond Youth, the too indulgent Maid,
Nor err, by such fantastick Scenes betray'd.
Tho' in my Path the prickly Thorn be seen,
And the waste Turf produce a fainter Green;
Tho' no gay Rose, or purple Product shine,
The rugged Surface still conceals the Mine;
And each unsightly Object can supply
More lasting Pleasure, more substantial Joy.

But

But Yet who or which Which

And h Twas By ten

Tis I And to Wher

Wher

But

The r Let F And

Let I

For c

Nor

ms,

15;

ow.

Foe.

s, gh.

ay,

d,

.

ut

But shou'd those siry glittring Toys allure,
Yet whence cou'd Sloth the mighty Boon procure?
Or whence receive, or how those Gifts bestow,
Which I alone possess --- her greatest Foe?
I from old Ocean rob the treasur'd Store,
And hidden Gems thro' ev'ry Realm explore;
Twas I the rugged Brilliant first reveal'd,
By tenfold Strata in the Earth conceas'd;
Tis I the shapeless Surface still refine,
And teach the rugged Brilliant how to shine.
Where blooms the Rose, where spires the shapely Free,
Where smiles the Grape, without fair Industry?

But grant we Sloth the Scene herfelf has drawn,
The mostly Grotto, and the flow'ry Lawn:
Let Frankincense with ev'ry Wind exhale,
And Philomela breath in ev'ry Gale;
Let Brilliants sparkle, (dear Machines of Pride!)
And from the Poplar flow the Amber Tide;
Let gay Pomona, quitting all around,
For choicest Fruits select the hallow'd Ground;
To tread the favour'd Soil shou'd Virtue cease,
Nor mostly Grotts, nor slow'ry Lawns cou'd please:

Nor

Nor ought Pomona's luscious Gifts avail: The Sound harmonious; or the spicy Gale.

See'st thou those Rocks in dreadful Pomp arise,
And barren Cliffs that sweep the vaulted Skies?
Those Fields whence Phabus all their Moisture drains,
And, too profusely kind, disrobes the Plains?
When I vouchsafe to tread the lonely Soil,
Those Rocks seem lovely, and those Desarts smile;
Oft' on those pathless Wilds as I appear,
(With Converse sweet his lonely Steps to chear)
Those Cliffs the Exile has with Pleasure view'd,
And call'd that Desart, "Blissful Solitude!

Known by its airy Height and tow'ring Spires,
Behind that Scene Fame's lofty Dome retires.
Steep the Ascent by which to Fame we rife,
Yet equal to the Labour is the Prize:
From thence you gain an earthly Crown; from thence
---you reach the Skies.

Far, far below the downy Throne is seen That lulls to Rest Ignavia's softer Queen: Define

Then

The Come

She to ome

The V Doom Boaft

s.

rife,

5 ?

rains,

mile

r) u, s, ence

ence

Thence to Fame's Turrets oft' She lifts her Eyes,
Deficous still, still impotent to rife.
Oft', when resolv'd to gain those shining Tow'rs,
The pensive Queen the dire Ascent explores;
Comes onward, wasted by the gummy Trees,
Some Sylvan Musick, or some scented Breeze;
She turns her Head; her own gay Realm she spies,
And all the airy Resolution dies,

Thus still in vain these gilded Visions please
The Wretch of Glory, whilst the Slave of Ease;
Doom'd ever in ignoble State to pine,
Boast her own Scenes, and languish after mine.

LOVE

Love and Musick.

SHall Love alone for ever claim
An universal Right to Fame,
An undisputed Sway?

Or has not Musick equal Charms,
To fill the Breast with strange Alarms,
And make the World obey.

The Thracian Bard, as Poets tell,

Cou'd mitigate the Pow'rs of Hell;

Ev'n Pluto's nicer Ear:

His Arts, no more than Love's, we find

To Deities or Men confin'd,

Drew Brutes in Crouds to hear.

Whatever fav'rite Passion reign'd,
The Poet still his Right maintain'd
O'er all that rang'd the Plain:
The fiercer Tyrants cou'd asswage,
Or fire the tim'rous into Rage,
Whene'er he chang'd the Strain.

In m

See!

A

And

Af

When

An

When And

It i

The I

When Per

The fe

The ti

An equ

And

In milder Lays the Bard began;
Soft Notes thro' every Finger ran,
And echoing charm'd the place:
See! fawning Lions gaze around,
And, taught to quit their favage Sound,
Affume a gentler Grace.

When Cymon view'd the fair One's Charms,

Her ruby Lips, and snowy Arms,

And told her Beauties o'er:

When Love reform'd his awkard Tone,

And made each clownish Gesture known,

It shew'd but equal Pow'r.

The Bard now tries a sprightlier sound,

When all the feather'd Race around

Perceive the vary'd Strains a

The soaring Lark the Note pursues;

The tim'rous Dove around him cooes,

And Philomel complains.

An equal Pow'r of Love I've feen
Incite the Deer to scour the Green,
And chace his barking Foe.

s.

Sometimes has Love, with greater might,
To challenge -- nay -- fometimes -- to fight
Provok'd th' enamour'd Beau.

When Silvia treads the smiling Plain,
How glows the Heart of ev'ry Swain,
By pleasing Tumults tost!
When Handel's solemn Accents roll,
Each Breast is fir'd, each raptur'd Soul
In sweet Consusion lost.

If she her melting Glances dart,
Or he his dying Airs impart,
Our Spirits sink away.
Enough, enough! dear Nymph, give o'er;
And thou, great Artist! urge no more
Thy unresisted Sway.

Thus Love or Sound affects the Mind:
But when their various Pow'rs are join'd,
Fly, daring Mortal, fly!
For when Selinda's Charms appear,
And I her tuneful Accents hear --I burn, I faint, I die!

Nec

And Whe

Had

Pe

The The And

To a

Such And

Ador Thou

And

0

COLEMIR'A. A Culinary Eclogue.

Nec tantum Veneris, quantum studiosa culinæ.

I Ight's fable Clouds had half the Globe o'er-

And Silence reign'd, and Folks were gone to Bed: When Love, which gentle Sleep can ne'er inspire, Had seated Damon by the Kitchen Fire.

Pensive he lay, extended on the Ground;
The little Lares kept their Vigils round;
The fawning Cats compassionate his case,
And purr around, and gently lick his Face;
To all his plaints the sleeping Curs reply,
And with hoarse Snorings imitate a Sigh.
Such gloomy Scenes with Lover's Minds agree,
And Solitude to them is best Society.

Cou'd I (he cry'd) express, how bright a grace Adorns thy morning Hands, and well-wash'd Face; Thou wou'dst, Colemira, grant what I implore, And yield me love, or wash thy Face no more.

C:

Ah!

Ah! who can fee, and feeing, not admire, Whene'er she sets the Pot upon the Fire! Her Hands out-shine the Fire, and redder things; Her Eyes are blacker than the Pot she brings.

But sure no Chamber-damsel can compare, When in meridian Lustre shines my Fair, When warm'd with Dinner's toil, in pearly rills, Adown her goodly Cheek the Sweat distills.

Oh! how I long, how ardently defire,
To view those rosy Fingers strike the Lyre!
For late, when Bees to change their Climes began,
How did I see 'em thrum the Frying-pan !

With her! I shou'd not envy G—his Queen, Tho' She in royal Grandeur deck'd be seen: Whilst Rags, just sever'd from my Fair-one's Gown, In russet Pomp, and greafy Pride hang down.

Ah! how it does my drooping Heart rejoice, When in the Hall I hear thy mellow Voice! How wou'd that Voice exceed the Village-Bell, Wou'dst thou but fing, "I like thee Passing well"!

ABE

When

1

W

How Get

"One

Th

Alas

'Twa

He h

If

Who

O m

For l

Bu

With

Fom

St

But

I bu

And

When from the Hearth she bade the Pointers go, How soft! how easy did her Accents slow! "Get out, she cry'd, when Strangers come to Sup, "One ne'er can raise those snoring Devils up."

S

ngs :

ills,

gan,

en,

own,

!

len

Then, full of wrath, the kick'd each lazy Brute, Alas! I envy'd even that Salute:
'Twas fure misplac'd, --- Shock said, or seem'd to say,
He had as lief, I had the kick, as they.

If the the mystick Bellows take in hand,
Who like the Fair can that Machine command?
O mayst thou ne'er by Eslus be seen,
For he wou'd fure demand thee for his Queen.

But shou'd the Flame this rougher aid refuse, And only gentler Med'cines be of use: With full-blown Cheeks she ends the doubtful strife, Foments the infant Flame, and puffs it into life.

Such Arts, as thefe, exalt the drooping Fire,
But in my Breach a fiercer Flame inspire:
I burn! I burn! O! give thy puffing o'er,
And swell thy Cheeks, and pout thy Lips no more:

With

With all her haughty Looks, the time I've seen; When this proud Damsel has more humble been, When with nice Airs she hoist the Pan-cake round, And dropt it, hapless Fair! upon the Ground.

Look, with what charming grace! what winning tricks!

The artful Charmer rubs the Candlesticks:

So bright she makes the Candlesticks she handles,

Oft have I said, --- There were no need of Candles.

But thou, my Fair! who never wou'dst approve Or hear, the tender Story of my love; Or mind, how burns my raging Breast,---a Button--Perhaps art dreaming of --- a Breast of Mutton-

Thus said, and wept the sad desponding Swain, Revealing to the sable Walls his Pain; But Nymphs are free with those they shou'd deny; To those, they love, more exquisitely coy!

Now chirping Crickets raise their tinkling Voice,
The lambent Flames in languid Streams arise,
And Smoke in azure Folds evaporates and dies.

GO M-

I

Did e What

Amid

Col

See!

But la

Or

When

I like

But

Vain

Sh

COMPARISON.

T IS by Comparison we know
On ev'ry Object to bestow
Its proper share of Praise:
Did each a like Perfection bear,
What Beauty, tho' divinely Fair,
Cou'd Admiration raise?

en;

n,

und.

ning

s, dles

OVE

on-

•

in,

ny;

Amidst the lucid Bands of Night,
See! Hesperus, serenely bright
Adorns the distant Skies:
But languishes, amidst the blaze,
Of sprightly Sol's meridian Rays,
Or Silvia's brighter Eyes.

Whene'er the Nightingale complains,

I like the melancholy Strains,

And praise the tuneful Bird:

But vainly might she strain her Throat,

Vainly exalt each swelling Note,

Shou'd Silvia's Voice be heard.

When,

When, on the Vi'lets purple Bed.
Supine I rest my weary Head,
The fragrant Pillow charms:
Yet soon such languid Bliss I'd sty,
Wou'd Silvis but the Loss supply,
And take me to her Arms.

The Alabaster's wond'rous White,
The Marble's Polish strikes my Sight,
When Silvia is not seen:
But ah! how faint that White is grown,
How rough appears the polish'd Stone,
Compar'd with Silvia's Mien!

The Rose, that o'er the Cyprian Plains, With Flow'rs enamel'd, blooming reigns, With undisputed Pow'r, Plac'd near her Cheek's celestial Red, (Its Purple lost, its Lustre sled,) Delights the Sense no more.

The

Dwe

A M

Who

They

Aw'd

And

For 7

Na

On w

Als al

Left v

Eager

The I

Do L

Wher And

The SCHOOL-MISTRESS. A POEM.

In Imitation of Spencer's Stile.

N evrich Mart that flands on British Ground. In evrich Village less y-known to Fame, Dwells there, in Cot uncouth, a far renown'd, A Matron old, whom we School-Miftress name; Who wont unruly Brats with Birch to tame : They grieven fore in Durance vile y-pent, Aw'd by the Pow'r of uncontrouled Dame; And oft-times on Vagaries idly bent For Task unconn'd, or unkempt Hair are fore y-shent.

Nar to this Dome is found a Patch so green. On which the Tribe their Gambols do display : Als at the Door impris'ning Board is feen; Lest weakly Wights of smaller fize shou'd stray : Eager, perdie, to bask in fun-shine Day ; The Noises intermix'd, which thence resound, Do Learning's little Tenement betray; Where sits the Dame, disguis'd in Look profound, And eyes her fairy Throng, and turns her Wheel around.

D

Right

'he

III.

Right well knew She each Temper to descry,
To thwart the proud, and the submiss to raise:
Some with vile copper Prize exalt on high,
And some entice with Pittance small of Praise:
And other Sorts with baleful Spriggs affrays:
Eke in her Absence She command doth hold,
While with quaint Arts the thoughtless Croud she sways;

Fore-warn'd if little Bird their Tricks behold,
'Twill whifper in her Ear, and all the Scene unfold.

IV.

Lo! now, with State, she utters the command.

Estsoons the Urchins to their Tasks repair;

Their Books of stature small take they in Hand,

Which with pellucid Horn secured are,

To save from Finger wet, the Letters fair:

The Work so quaint, that on their Backs is seen,

St. George's high Atchievements does declare;

On which thilk Wight that has y-gazing been

Kens the forth-coming Rod, unpleasing Sight, I ween!

The IThe p
When
Ne ho
Or wl

pro

The

Attend

1

But

By tur And fr Knowi Till Fo

When o

[wee and to

V.

But ah! what Pen his woful Plight can trace,
Or what Device his loud Laments explain,
The Form uncouth of his difguifed Face,
The pallid Hue that dyes his Looks amain,
The plenteous Show'r that does his Check distain,
When he in abject wife implores the Dame;
Ne hopeth ought of sweet Reprieve to gain:
Or when from high she levels well her Aim,
And thro' the Thatch his Cries each falling Stroke proclaim.

VI.

The other Tribe aghast, with sore dismay
Attend, and conn their Tasks with mickle Care:
By turns astony'd evrich Twigg survey,
And from their Fellows surrow'd Bum beware;
Knowing, I wist, how each the same may share:
Till Fear has taught 'em a performance meet,
And to the well-known Chest the Dame repair;
Whence oft with sugar'd Cates she doth 'em greet,
And Ginger-bread y-rare, now, certes, doubly sweet.

But

it, I

n,

:

d fhe fold.

VII.

Now to their Seats they hie with merry glee,
And in bescemly order sitten there;
All but the Wight of Bum y-galled, he
Abhors both Bench, and Stool, and Form, and Chair;
(This Hand in Mouth y-fix'd, that rends his Hair)
And eke with Snubs profound, and heaving Breast, Convulsions intermitting! does declare
His grievous Wrongs, his Dame's unjust Behest,
And scorns her proffer'd Love, and shuns to be carels't.

VIII.

Behind some Door, in melancholy Thought,
Mindless of Food, he, dreary Caitiff! pines,
Ne for his Fellows joyance careth ought,
But to the Winds all Merriment resigns.
His Face besprent with liquid Chrystal shines;
And many a sullen Look askaunce is sent,
Which for his Dame's Annoyance he designs;
Nathless the more to pleasure him she's bent,
The more doth he perverse her 'Haviour past resent,

All Stir'n Then Ne fe But of And Whill Turn

> And Salut Some Some With

Thil

In pa

Bu

They

IX.

Algates the rest from silk Missortune free,
Stir'n but as Nature doth abroad them call;
Then squatten down with Hand beneath each Knee,
Ne seeken out or secret Nook or Wall,
But cack in open Street -- no Shame doth them appall.
And may no Carl their Innocence deride,
While they p-s, boldly, in the face of all;
Turning unaw'd their Vestments small aside,
Ne covet Hedge, ne Barn their privy Parts to hide.

X.

But when the Hour of Pleasaunce draweth near,
They usher forth all debonair and gay;
And standing on the Green, with jocund Leer,
Salute the Stranger passing on his Way.
Some builden fragile tenements of Clay;
Some to the standing Lake their Courses bend,
With Pebbles smooth at Duck and Drake to play:
Thilk to the Huxter's sav'ry Cot y-tend,
In pastry Kings and Queens th'allotted Mite to spend.

paft

hair

Hair)

eaft.

A.

to be

IX,

XI.

Here, as each Season yields a diffrent store,

Each Season's Stores in order ranged been;

Apples with Cabbage-net y-cover'd o'er,

Galling full fore th' unmoney'd Wight are seen,

And Goose-b'rie clad in Liv'ry red, or green:

And here of lovely Dye the Cath'rine Pear,

Fine Pear! as lovely for thy Juice, I ween.

O! may no Wight e'er pennyless come there,

Lest led by thee astray, he shameful Thest prepare.

XII.

See! Cherries here, e'er Cherries yet abound,
With Thread so white in lusheous Bundles ty'd,
Scatter, like blooming Maid, their Glances round;
And draw with pamper'd Look our Eyes aside:
These must be bought tho' Penury betide;
The Plum of purple Hue, the Nut so brown,
Tempting the passing Swain: thilk Cakes beside,
Whose much-lov'd Names th' Inventres City own,
Rend'ring thro' Britain's Isle Salopia's Praises known.

The

R

Who

How

Thro

Yet a

When

When Th

As Th

The QUILL.

R Enown'd Machine! important Trifle!

To whom each Art fome Tribute owes,

Who to the World thy Praise can stifle?

Or who without thy Aid disclose?

II.

When Cities forms a che

How just Thou prov'st to injur'd Merit,

When Courts neglect it, hence we find;

Thro' Thee does Pope Fame's Hill inherit,

And circling Bays his Temples bind.

III.

Yet are the dull, as well as brightest,
Indebted to Thy various Use:
When flatter'd Noble's Praise Thou writest,
Or gayly deck'st Thy Parent Goose.

1;

n,

n.

le

IV.

When Peggy's Cleanly Hand Thou graces,
The ill-plac'd Web Thy Presence slies;
As Thou by Young's Direction chacest
The mis-becoming Stains of Vice.

V.

In Chevy-chace, so fam'd in Story,

Thou taught'st th' unerring Shafts to fly;

When, fatal to the Scotish Glory,

Thy Down imbib'd the purple Dye.

VI.

When Chlee form'd the Silken Flower,

(Which, by Thy aid, the Artist drew;)

And felt the guilty Needle's Power,

Such was her lovely Finger's Hue.

VII.

When hostile Rage, and Fury lingers,
And Vengeance comes but slowly on;
Thou plac'd between Machaon's Fingers,
Far, Far excell'st both Sword and Gun!

VIII.

While ev'ry grateful Tongue rehearses,

The Monarch's praise; each rolling Year,

How dext'rous Thou, in Squibs, or Verses,

C—r, or Black-shoe-boy declare.

Unha

Then

En

Knelle

(W

Cou'd

In Sil

When

Poten

Yet m

In

0

IX.

Unhappy Tooth Thy Aid requiring,

Thou can'st from Fragments vile refine;

Then, from the gen'rous Work retiring,

Enjoy'st alone the Silver Shrine.

X.

Kneller, to distant Times and Places,

(While Thou confin'dst each stragling Hair,)

Cou'd tell his Art, and Myra's Graces,

How skillful he, and she how fair.

XI.

In Silvia's Spinnet, ever-pleasing,

Thy tributary Aid is known:

When, Poet's Harmony increasing,

His Fame Thou raisest, — and Thy own.

Ingendighted Horida expect.IIX

Potent, when Handel's Touch obeying,

Thou can'ft to Heav'n exalt the Mind:

Yet more, when, Charming Silvia playing,

In her alone an Heav'n we find!

rugmi ot polos anali golde field

Like Smans, their Elicy. . .

--- Alboque simillima cygno.

A S Delia, lovely Syren! fate
The myrtle Shades among;
Regardless of a farther Fate
Than what her killing Eyes create,
Philander beg'd a Song.

Too well, alas! the artful knew
He'd not his fuit give o'er;
And cry'd — "by walking in the Dew,"

"I'm grown so hoarse" — "I vow 'tis true" —
"Dear Swain, insist no more!" —

At length, to his renew'd Address

She yields, yet vows again

She scarce can draw her Breath, much less
In modulated Thrills express,

Or raise one pleasing Strain.

Such-like Evasions store the Heart
Of ev'ry tuneful She,
That one, unvers'd in Female Art,
Must think them going to impart
Like Swans, their Elegy.

To the 1 ran

Where

And e

Gue Folks 1

But w

Why,t

And fa

Dra L

The

The Gossipping. A BALLAD.

3.

he

To the Tune of, King John, and the Abbot of Canterbury.

T O a Goffiping once the Immortals descended,

(As some Sort of People are hugely bestiended,)

Where with stout humming Liquor the Tankards ran o'er,

And each thought he ne'er drank such Netter before

Derry down, down, Hey derry down.

But what brought they with em, these Heavenly Guests?

Folks never go empty to fuch Sort of Feafts:

Why, they brought neither Sugar, nor Plumbs it is true.

But all made a Promise of what they wou'd do.

Derry down, &c.

And faid, he would prove a good Friend to the Child and wou'd make him one Day, at his Parents Defire.

Or a Lord of a Mannour, or Knight of a Shire.

Derry down, &cc.

E 2

Apollo but cry'd, as the Bantling shou'd grow,
He'd teach him a Tune on the Bag-pipes, or so:
Or, if he shou'd chuse some Employment to kill,
He'd shew him the best in the World --- with a Pill,
Derry down, &c.

Diana fat next to her Brother, in Place,

And faid, in her Woods he might follow the Chaces
And if Courfing or fuch like, shou'd e'er be his Care;
She, at one Minute's Warning, cou'd shew him an Hare.

Derry down, &c.

Then Neptune arose, and the Infant to bless,
In all Sorts of Fishery, promis'd success:
By the Rivers, or Ponds, let him go where he wou'd,
With Rods, Lines, and so forth --- his Sport shou'd be good.

Derry down, &c.

God Bacchus succeeded, and hiccuping said,
Of all jolly Topers he'd make him the Head:
And when each other Toper lay low on the Ground,
This Toper upright, on his Legs shou'd be found.

Derry down, &c.

Marsaffirm'd with a Volley of Oaths, like a Hector, In all Sorts of Squabbles, he'd be his Protector: Nor shou'd he ever Sneak, or be any Man's Joke, For himself wou'd stand by him,---and see his Head --- broke.

Derry down, &c.

At thi

P

Mend

He m

Then And i

Or. (She'd

Grim So los But is

He co

Miner Who bef

Were

But a

For t

At

At this up-hop'd Vulcan, that footy old Blinker,
And swore, he cou'd furnish the Brat with a Tinker;
Mend Kettles, and Pans-- or if that wou'd not do,
He might call at his Shop, shou'd his Horse want a Shoe.

Derry down, &c.

0:

11,

Pill.

haces

Care;

m an b'u'd b'uc

ınd, nd.

tor,

ead

At

Then Venus she promis'd to search the World round,
And if ever a buxom Young Lass cou'd be foundOr. (she simper'd, and said.) If hewanted a whore, She'd be at his Service,-- she need not say more-Derry down, &c.

Grim Pluto then whisper'd in the good-woman's Ear,
So lowly he whisper'd, one scarcely cou'd hear:
But it was, Sir, to give the Young stripling to know,
He cou'd wink at a Fault, when he came down below.

Derry down, &c.

Minerva, Proferpina, Juno, and more,

Who shou'd, (Criticks say) have been mention'd before,

Were going to promise some good to the Child--But alas! and alack! all their Project was spoil'd--Derry down, &c.

For the Fates being angry they were not invited,

Tock ill the Neglect, and refolv'd to requite it:

Let

Let us e'en cut the I bread in two, one of 'em cry'd, So the Bantling b — d him, b — t him, and dy'd. Derry down, &c.

Let Parents, before they build vast Expectations,
To see their Sons fill up high Places, and Stations,
Be Rulers of Boroughs, or Rulers of States:
Get a Promise, or Note o' their Hands, from the Fates.

Derry down, down, Hey derry down.

STAN-

To

Who

ex

1

O

And

Thou

Lo!

Deat

Yet,

STANZA's To the Memory of W. G. Parish--Clerk,

cry'd.

dy'd.

ons.

the

Who departed this Life &c. to the Inexpressible Grief of his Admirers.

In Imitation of Maister Sternhold.

O Wight, that travell'it this Church-Yard!

Mark what this Stone doth tell;

And if thou but unletter'd art,

Sit down awhile and spell.

II.

Thou art, God-wot, both brisk and strong,
And think'st not yet to die.
Lo! e'er Death laid me all along,
Just such a one was I.

III.

Death makes the stoutest Mortal start,

Few are courageous then:

Yet, when I saw I must depart,

I boldly cry'd, — Amen.

IV.

I wot not well, how others can,
The Folk to Heaven bring;
But well I trow, I was the Man,
That led them in a String.

V.

I hawk'd, and hem'd, and fung and spit,
And vex'd my Throat full fore:

Some when I fung, were pleas'd at it,
And some — when I gave o'er.

VI.

Certes, there are will hum a Tune,
And fing a Song right well:
Yet fure no Song was like my Pfalm,
No Musick like my Bell.

VII.

To praise the L--d did I abound,

(So far, as Sternhold goes:)

And, lest my Lips shou'd spoil the Sound,

I prais'd him thro' my Nose.

Tho

Yet

But

For,

Tho'

Yet o

Juft

Ther

VIII.

s.

VIIL

The wicked Folk might laugh and fneer,
And be to Mirth full prone;
Yet to the Saints it was right dear;
For why? --- the Gospel tone.

IX.

But Death will not to Sound give Way,

To Musick not incline:

For, if he wou'd for any stay,

He sure had stay'd for mine.

X.

The Pit doth me retain;
Yet do I hope to fee a Day
Of getting up again.

XI.

Just so, when Folks at Church are found,

(For this is good and wise)

There is a Time to sit ye down,

And eke a Time to rise.

XII.

And O! may ev'ry Reader kind

Bestow one Tear, or Sigh;

For sure 'twill touch him near, to find

That mortal Man shou'd die.

XIII.

And die he must; 'tis vain to plead Wit, Scholarship, or Pride: Great Sternhold, Hopkins, all are sled! And I, their Servant, died!

Memento mori.

ANA

S

Dark Stag

Of a

Let r

In fo

Love

Whe Thou May

Form

ANACREONTICK.

Io! Bacche! Hor.

CINCE it is decreed by Fate, Friends must sever, soon or late; Darkling to their Ledgings roam; Stagger to their longest Home; Of all Deities the best. Bacchus! hear a Son's Request!

Let me metamorphos'd be, Into fome wide-spreading Tree: In some pleasant flow'ry Glade, With my Branches form a Shade. Lovers there may blefs my Boughs; Topers, merrily carouze.

When, mature and bulky grown. Thoughtless Swains shall hew me down: May the Carver, friendly Soul! Form of me a curious Bowl.

A.

On the large capacious Round,
Somewhere let my Bust be found;
That, when once the jovial Crew
Shall my honest Visage view;
It may kindle fresh Desire,
And a mighty Goût inspire.

Near it, be some Foliage strewn; Foliage of the Vine alone. Let some little Bacchus join, Such as on a Country Sign.

But, with all this Art and Care, Be it large, as well as fair: Else, however neat, the Bowl Ne'er can please the thirsty Soul.

Let it, (if it can be so)

Hold more, than it seems to do.

Let it so capacious be,

That it seem to hold a Sea!

Thus may Bacchus hence remain

Tyrant of the lesser Main.

10

Use the

Let m

In its

To co

Profic

Thus
By th

'Tis

How

Whil

Bacch

Use the Refuse, I enjoin,
For the Service of the Vine.
Let my Boughs support the Tree,
In its weakly Infancy.
What remains, may be of Use
To contain th' unripen'd Juice:
Forming Butts, and all that may Profit, in the Toping way.

Thus may I be lov'd again

By the Care-deceiving Train.

'Tis my Study, Day and Night,

'Tis my only Heart's Delight,

How I may of Service be

To my Dear Fraternity.

Whilft I live — I'll do my best;

Bacchus grant, O grant the rest!

Te

To Mr. POPE,

ON

His DUNCIAD.

Urit enim fulgore Suo --- Hor.

And Envy labours to defame

The Charms, she grieves to see:

Merit, like thine, by these beset,
May bless their dull Designs;
The sparkling Di'mond fixt in Jet,
With added Lustre shines.

O! Pope, each friend kind Heav'n bestows,
That can thy Fame increase:
Next them, thrice happy in the Foes,
,'Twere ev'n Disgrace to please!

With

As Be

'Tis th

T

With puny Wit, and Spite profound,

The Tribe its Shame pursues;

As Bees, to dart a trivial Wound,

Their little Lives would lose.

s.

Vich

'Tis theirs, with Self-condemning guilt,
To level harmless Sneers:
'Tis thine, like Phabus, where thou wilt,
To fix the Ass's Ears.

Eve's

Eve's Speech in Milton, upon her Expulsion out of PARADISE.

Mournful Message! such transcendent Pain
Not Death cou'd give, nor Expectation seign!
Must I then leave these blissful Walks, and Bow'rs,
My teeming Fruit-trees, and my rip'ning Flow'rs?
Each verdant Lawn, and each delightful Grove,
Where I was wont, where Gods might chuse, to rove?

Those Pines, and Cedars, which luxuriant rise,
And each fair Object that first met these Eyes?
Yet here I hop'd to watch the springing Train;
Here sooth my Fate, and mitigate my Pain;
And here, abandon'd Wretch! at least, to know
A lazy Grief, an Indolence of Woe.

Ye Flow'rs whose nicer Frame, whose subtile Veins Resuse the Moisture of less fertile Plains! Ye Plants, which in no vulgar Soil can rise; Or bear the Impulse of inclement Skies! Who fh

Who

Toe

And To y

To y

My E

And Dear

Thee

The

Rour

Ther

The

How O'er

How

For t

Whe

ARN

Who now, with glad'ning Streams, your Shoots shall raise;

Or lead, to wanton in the folar Blaze?

Who teach your Tints the kindly'ft Change to know,

And, by a just fuccession, doubly glow?

To each your Names my early Fancy gave;

And strove, from Fate, your Embryg-leaves to fave.

To you, at Ev'n I friet attendance paid;

To you, in cool of early Dawn, I ffra,'d.

Adieu, frail Beauty's! doom'd no more to fhare

My Ev'ning's Labour, or my Morning's Care !

And O my blifsful Home! my nuprial Bow'r!

Dear conscious Scene of many a tender Hour!

Thee to adorn, I cull'd, with pleasing Toil,

The fairest Produce of the choicest Soil :

Round thee, the Vi'let blows, the Myrtle blooms,

The Jasmine twines. - to lavish fost Persumes :

There breaths the Rofe; and, in fweet Streams, diffill

The lovely Languor's of the faint Jonquill.

How shall I then thy fragrant Shelter change,

O'er dreary Wilds, and unknown Scenes to range?

How leave this purer Air, thefe Fruits fublime,

For the grofs Product of a coarfer Clime?

Where Earth and Air refuse such fost Supplies :

Ungrateful Defarts, and unfriendly Skies!

How shall I part!

G

JU-

t Pain

on.

t of

S.

feign! ow'rs, w'rs?

e, Se, to

,

W

Veins

A Par

JUDITH's Song.

Hen, fir'd with Zeal, the Warriour Dame began,

And thro' applauding Crouds her Accents ran.

Ye rescu'd Throngs! your tuneful Tribute bring, Raise the saint Voice, and sweep the slighted String; Your various Arts, in lostiest Strains, display; A Theme like mine requires no vulgar Lay; HE is my Theme, whose great Commands prevail, When Courage, Vigour, Art and Numbers sail; At whose resistless Voice unsinew'd, yield The well-try'd Army, and well-marshall'd Field: Led by whose Hand, a safe Retreat I sound, Tho' Nations rag'd, tho' Millions storm'd around. From northern Mountains, a stupendous Throng Of conqu'ring Troops, proud Asur trail'd along: Whence, Torrents stop'd forsook their wonted Shore, And, bright with Arms, our Hills look'd green no more.

Inflam'd with Rage, with airy Projects vain,
He threaten'd Seas of Blood, and Hills of Slain,
That Flames should ravage, where the Sword shou'd spare,

Nor Age, nor Sex redeem the Young or Fair :

The

The Sa Tori

Not

Too Yet

Give

Fell'

Tw

Tw Tw

Whi

She

And

Wit

Enfl

And

The Babe shou'd stain, with harmless Blood, the Sands,

ne

g,

5;

il,

e.

10

'd

he

Torn from the Mother's Breast, and trembling Hands. Not the foft Maid his harden'd Breast shou'd move, Too fierce for Pity, as too rude for Love. Yet cou'd our God, his boafted Pow'r difarm. Give manly Fury to a Female Arm!

Not fanguine Youth, nor tall Gigantick Might, Fell'd the dire Tyrant in a dubious Fight : Throughout his Camp, no hostile Fires there flew, No Poison rag'd, nor missive Jav'lin slew : Twas Love's fost Flame, (and who cou'd Love

'Twas Beauty's Darts, o'ercame his yielding Soul, 'Twas Judith's Face--- She left her gloomy Veil, While envious Custom wou'd her Charms conceal: Her sparkling Eyes, with Tears familiar grown, She gayly taught, an Office long unknown : Chearful She laid her fable Weeds aside, And, tho' She shone, She shone for Ifrael's Pride: She bade her Robe wave wanton with the Wind, Within the Purple Tyre her Locks confin'd, Enflav'd the Tyrant with the circling Toy, And taught the filken Texture to destroy;

Her well-plac'd Gems, his fault'ring Soul o'erthrew, Her Charms disarm'd him, and her Faulchion slew. The desp'rate Scene of Death, her Hands display'd, Lost in Amaze, the Persian Chiefs survey'd; Chill'd with cold Fear the softer Mede beheld: Yet own'd her Courage, as her Charms, excell'd. From either Camp shrill Clamours pierc'd the Sky, The Shrieks of Sorrow, and the Shouts of Joy: Here, the gay Sounds of mirthful Bands were known, There, the wild Horrours of an Host o'er-thrown.

Stretch'd on the Plain the flaughter'd Victims lie,
Who impious dar'd JEHOVAH's Aid defy.
'Twas HE alone their haughty Rage cou'd quell,
By HIM the Victors fought, the vanquish'd fell:
They fought, by HIM, with ev'ry Pow'r endu'd, Force, when they struck, and Speed, when they pursu'd.

HIS Praises let me sing, whose might divine
No Pow'r can limit, and no Tongue define!
Be HE by Age ador'd, ador'd by Youth,
Whose Works are wonders, and whose Words are Truth!

HE spake---the Dust an human Form receiv'd: HE breath'd---that human Form respir'd and liv'd.

Who

Who Man,

Tho'
Tho'
Quick

Yet g

And, Prote

What The I Tho'

And E Blifs The

> Peace Agai

> Shall Scatt

Nor

Raife

Who shall, great God! THY sov'reign Will restrain? Man, Dust, or Nothing, as THY Words ordain!

ew,

ew.

y'd,

y, vn, n.

ley

are ho

Tho' Earth's Foundations at THY fight give Place;
Tho' deep-fix'd Mountains skip before THY Face;
Quick at THY Breath tho' flinty Rocks decay,
And flow, like Wax, in liquid Folds away:
Yet gentle Mercy, to THY People shewn,
Endears THY Sway, and gilds THY awful Throne:
And, on the pious Suppliant, pleas'd to shine,
Protects him, fearless' midst a Pow'r like THINE.

What tho' with Gums, our Altars smoke in vain,
The Fumes of Incense, and the Fat of sain;
Tho' Worship's Pomp THOU can'st regardless see,
AndEarth's richFragrance breaths nosweets to THEE:
Bliss still succeeds, when righteous Hands revere.
The Mind untainted, and the Heart sincere.

Peace to all such! but who with impious Arms,
Against THY Israel raise unjust Alarms,
Shall feel THY Angel with unpitying Hand,
Scatter Disease, and Tortures thro' the Land:
Nor e'er returning Peace their spirits chear,
Raise the sad Heart, or stay the falling Tear.

The

The TEA-TABLE.

When rifing Nymphs their Fancy aid
With Scandal --- and Bohea.

The pictur'd Urn an equal Share
Diffus'd, to all around:
O! that in ev'ry Court there were
But Half the Justice found!

Sudden the melting Sweet subsides,
Like Zembla's Hills of Snow;
When from the Heav'ns descending Tides
Their glitt'ring Tops o'er-flow.

The curling Steams, around the Place Exhale a nice perfume: And, from Selinda's beauteous Face, Call forth celestial Bloom. And co

So like Ami

From E

Ah! w

Refi

Yet the My And, 1

My

Whoe'

Have f

Sure, i

Such o

And cou'd, alas! destructive prove. A Nymph, so form'd to please : So like fome new-born Queen of Love, Amidft her infant Seas?

From Bacchus, fprightly Cups our Thoughts A careles Pleasure share : Ah! why shou'd Cytherea's Draughts Refine the Soul to Care?

Yet thence, I felt my Pangs renew, My Bloom, my Life decay: And, like the gentle Herb's I drew, My Spirits fink away.

Whoe'er, from bright Selinda's Hand. The fatal Gift obtain'd, Have fince, expos'd to her Command, Ten thousand Woes sustain'd.

Sure, if Enchantreffes there are, Whom tortur'd Hearts obey, Such only are the blooming Fair, The only Philtre, Tea.

INSCRIPTION.

To the Memory
Of A. L. Esquire,

Justice of the Peace for this County:

Who, in the whole Course of his Pilgrimage

Thro' a trifling ridiculous World,

Maintaining his proper Dignity,

Notwithstanding the Scoffs of Ill-dispos'd Persons,

And Wits of the Age,
That ridicul'd his Behaviour,
Or censur'd his Breeding;
Following the Distates of Nature,
Desiring to ease the afflicted,
Eager to set the Prisoner at Liberty,

Without having for his End

The Noise, or Report such Things generally cause
In the World,

(As he was seen to perform them of none)

But the sole Relief and Happiness,

Of the Party in distress;

Him-

But

Himself resting Easy,

When He cou'd render that so;

Not griping, or pinching himself,

To hoard up Superfluities;

Not coveting to keep in his Possession

What gives more Disquietude, than Pleasure;
But charitably diffusing it

To all round about him:

Making the most forrowful Countenance

To Smile,

In his Presence;

Always bestowing more than he was ask'd,

Always imparting before he was desir'd;

Not Proceeding in this Manner,

Upon every trivial Suggestion,

But the most mature, and solemn Deliberation; With an incredible Presence, and undauntedness

Of Mind:

With an inimitable Gravity and Economy

Of Face;

Bidding loud defiance

To Politeness and the Fashion,

Dar'd let a F - t.

im-

ule

y:

ons.

c

H

To

To SELINDA Sailing.

SEE, my Selinda, how the Groves
Deceive th' ill-judging Eye!
And, as the Boat more nimbly moves,
More swiftly seem to fly.

So to your Slave with Speed runs on The Day, when you are near; But O! how tedious, when you're gone, The ling'ring Hours appear!

What secret Cause, Selinds, trace,

Can such Deceit impart: —

The Hours have sure an equal Pace,

But ah! — not so my Heart.

To

IA

Gu

To SELINDA.

An Apology for having celebrated Others.

PLATO, who to Perfection brought,
And made of gentle Love a Duty,
Wife Plato's Rules have gravely taught
To scale by Steps to perfect Beauty.

11.

Long had I strove, with equal Care,
In thought some perfect Form to find;
I stole a Grace from ev'ry Fair,
To deck the Charmer in my Mind.

III.

Guiltless of Love! 'Twas hence I sought

To praise the Sex with nicer Art:

Resolv'd, the Form my Fancy wrought

Alone, when found, shou'd move my Heart.

IV.

The Bees thus furnish out their Hive;
To None confin'd; intent alone
On the rich compound, they contrive.

V.

Like Mancha's Knight, I form'd a Fair,

My Prowess in her Cause to shew:

Nor guess'd a real Nymph cou'd share,

Much less, engross my Heart, like YOU.

VI.

Hence then, Selinda, you'll discover,

(If not, the sprightlier Muse may shew it,)

That then the Poet made the Lover;

As now, the Lover makes the Poet.

CUPID

W

And

He fi

When

And f

Say,

If wit

Little

CUPID and PLUTUS.

Hen Celia, Love's eternal Foe, To rich old Gomez first was marry'd: And angry Cupid came to know. His Shafts had err'd, his Bow mif-carry'd :

H

He figh'd, he wept, he hung his Head, On the cold Ground, full fad, he laid him : When Plutus, there by Fortune led. In this desponding Plight survey'd him.

HE.

And fure, he cry'd, you'll own at laft Your boafted Pow'r by mine exceeded: Say, wretched Boy, now all is paft, How little She your Efforts heeded.

IV.

D

If with Success you wou'd affail, Gild, Youngster, doubly gild your Arrows: Little the feather'd Shafts avail. Tho' wing'd from Mamma's Doves and Sparrows.

V.

What tho' each Reed, each Arrow grew,

Where Venus bath'd herfelf; depend on't,

Twere more for Use, for Beauty too,

A Di'mond sparkled at the End on't.

VI.

Peace, Plutus, Peace! — the Boy reply'd;
Were not my Arts by your's infested,
I cou'd each other Pow'r deride,
And rule this Circle, unmolested.

VII.

7

The f

The .

1

See yonder Pair! no worldly views
In Chloe's gen'rous Breast resided:
Love bade her the spruce Valet chuse,
And she by potent Love was guided.
VIII.

For this! she quits her golden Dreams,

In her gilt Coach no more the ranges;

And her rich Crimson, bright with Gems,

For Cheeks impearl'd with Tears, she Changes.

IX.

Tho' fordid Celis own'd your Pow'r,

Think not so monstrous my disgrace is:

You gain'd this Nymph — that very Hour,

I gain'd a Score in diff'rent Places. Writ-

Written under a LADY's Name on a Window.

Hree Brilliants fair Selinda grac'd; (There Love's Artill'ry lies;) One from her fnowy Finger blaz'd: Two sparkled in her Eyes.

The first, which shone with fainter Rays, Cou'd here her Name impart : The others drew her charming Face More deeply, on my Heart.

filler, when with

and edited Willer sig bins

Budnes at Section and even but substitute.

: Wagings for to We say the right ody or hart

nges.

The SNUFF-BOX.

Mmortal Parnel has divinely fung. How from the plastic Hand Pandora forung. ----The Deities confulting join'd their Care To grace with all their Arts the rifing Fair: By ev'ry God fome Bleffing was beftow'd: From each bright Goddels some Perfection flow'd: Ambitious those, to form the Pattern well; Thefe, each to view her Attribute excell. Venus, elate with hourly Conquest grown, Jealous of Gifts that might Transcend her own, Extending far the Pow'rs of Air and Mien. Just form'd a Goddess, where she meant a Queen: Yet saw each Grace in such Perfection join, That, with diffinguish'd Lustre, none cou'd shine: Like Jewels, each reflecting various Rays, Their Colours diff rent, but alike their Blaze.

Thus shone Selinda, when, with matchless Pow'r,
To all around the polish'd Box she bore.

Love sure had there his treasur'd Ills confin'd,
And to the Nymph the fatal Gift consign'd:

That

That

With

O w And

For And

That thence his Snares, conceal'd in pungent grains, Might to foft Hearts convey his pleasing Pains. With ev'ry share she dealt a latent Wound, While in my Breast superiour Pangs I found.

O wou'd the Fair that glitt'ring Toy impart, And ease the Anguish of a wounded Heart! For in that radiant Mansson Hope remains, And who acquires the first, the last obtains.

The

The ENCHANTRESS.

Anacreontick.

UPID, on a Summer's Day, On the flow'ry Herbage lay; Underneath the myrtle Shade, Musing on the am'rous Trade. Round him, in Diforder strewn, All his warlike Stores were thrown : Little Spears, and subtle Darts, Such as pierce the foftest Hearts. Such to grace their Piece or Strain Painters draw or Poets feign.

Hail, he cry'd, my fav'rite Seats ! Pleasing Glooms! and soft Retreats! Deck'd with all that's Sweet or fair ! Pleasures, which I seldom share! Other Deities are bleft, They have each their time of Reft: But the time I never knew. When I had not - What to do.

Man Or S Cauf 1'11 c Isac Furn That The Non They Have Phæb Since Phab Yet 1 And I'll a She t She f

Fron

Fr

In

From

In a

From this End o'th World to t'other,

Mamma bids me make a Pother;

Or She reaches down the Rod,

Cause I am but tiny God —

From these Cares to set me free,

I'll create a Deputy.

In fair Albion Isle renown'd. Is a certain Lady found, Furnish'd well with ev'ry Grace. That adorns my Mother's Face. Then her Eyes! no Rivals know : None - but what her Glass can shew. They supply the distant Sun, Have more Hearts, than I, undone. Phabus ne er approaches nigh. Since She can his Pow'r fupply: Phabus will not; why shou'd I? Yet to make her Pow'r divine. And the more resemble mine. I'll a share of Darts consign. She their Bufiness understands, She shall take it of my Hands -Full of's Errand up he rose,

In a Trice to Silvia goes.

Quick

Quick his Pinions beat on high. As the Lack's that scales the Sky. As my Heart, when Silvia's nigh. Thus, sffur'd he must prevail, (Pow'r's a Gift that ne'er can fail) Thrice he raps - then tells his Tale. Here my Muse must change the strain, Female Fury to explain, Terms abrupt, and broken Lays Best will fuit the Scolding Phrase. - Pray, Sir Cupid, let me know, Can I wield your filthy Bow? Can I - O ye odious Boy ! Your rough Implements employ? -I'm no Amazon, nor can Act the Wonders - of a Man -Go - fantastick Witling - pray go-Whence you came - I'm no Virago -Thefe, he cry'd (with Aspect sour,) Keep, in ev'ry Shape, their Pow'r. So you wo'nt the Gift refuse, Be they - e'en whate'er you chuse. The Points may form ye - Jove knows what -The Points are Gold - fair Maid - mind that. Speak

Spea Hen

The

And

Can Whi

N

Shall

Agr.

Who

'Tis

To re

Speak the word, the wanton cries, Hence a Snuff-box shall arise : Then the Feather, plac'd with Care. May Demolish - from your Hair: And the Sticks -- while Ten is counting -Form ve Fan-flicks - fit for mounting. Not Mamma - I needs must tell ye -Can in guiding thefe, excell ye; Which conducted by your Art. Shall a furer Fate Impart, Than they cou'd, whence once a Dart -Agreed! 'twas done - ye Beaus beware Of whate'er furrounds the Fair ! Who knows what, to please the Dame, Cupid's other Darts became? -'Tis a Hazard, I aver, To receive a Pin of Her.

Je-ne-s,cai-quoi.

In Imitation of Ld Rochester's POEM upon Nothing.

Y E Sages all! no longer vainly try

To each perplexing Doubt to make reply,

But justly solve it with a Je-ne-scai-quoi.

II.

Dear happy Phrase, to ancient Times unknown!

Substantial Forms have long usurp'd thy Throne,

And Subtle Matter reign'd, with Glory not its own.

III.

When Reason's Optics can no farther see,
Then Fancy's only must of Service be,
And Fancy's airy Schemes unite at last in Thee.

IV

O'er upper Worlds exulting Sophist's roam,

Till, where they first set out, at last they come;

And reck'ning up their Gains find thee the total Sum;

Unnu Giant

Such

Ah!

Their Lay.

By the

What'

Some-

The Q

The P

Under Discov

Or dan

V.

Unnumber'd Folio's, big with Wit's Pretence, Giants in Stature, but mere Dwarfs in Sense, Such Knowledge only yield, as they could'ft best ditpense.

VI.

Ah! wou'd thy Friends confess thy gentler Sway, Their Iliads vast a Nut-shell might convey; Their Long heroick strains might shrink to Namby's Lay. VII.

What's Wit, the wife Man's Scorn, the Poet's Pride, By those whose wants are greatest, most enjoy'd? Some-thing to Madness much, and more to thee ally'd. VIII.

Thou under various Names art still the same. The Quaker's Light, the fiery Zealot's Aim, The Poet's fancy'd Muse, the Lover's fancy'd Flame.

IX.

vn.

e; um:

Vi

Under thy Shield the Critick launches free, Discovers Charms which no one else can see, Or damns, triumphant when fecur'd by thee.

2

X.

Beneath thy Guard the Envious Mind can trace A Secret Blemish in Selinda's Face; Or in Melanthe's Mien, the Lover find a Grace.

XI.

E'en Beauty's Charms thro' various Colours shewn, Diff'rent in each is still by some-thing Known, Some-thing, secure to please, exprest by thee alone.

XII.

The Sceptick strove thy gen'ral claim to shew, Disown'd by Moderns, yet from thee we know Their wild Debates arose, to thee at last must flow.

XIII.

What makes the reftless flight his present Store?
What makes the Miser daily strive for more?
Wou'd they the Truth confess, they must confess they Pow'r.

XIV.

However stor'd with Good, or void of Ill
Our Lives appear; yet thou art wanting still,
To mend the tasteless Draught, to gild th' unsightly Pill.

3

VER-

To

T

From Ofc' 1

And A

To pr

Shall o

Nor w

Where

Yet

Alike i

VERSES to a LADY.

Together with some Colour'd Patterns of Flowers.

MADAM!

T HO' rude the Draughts, tho' artless seem the Lines,

From one unskill'd in Verse, or in Designs; Ost' has Good-Nature been the Fool's Desence,

And honest Meaning gilded Want of Sense.

Fear not, tho' Flow'rs and Beauty grace my Lay,

To praise one Fair, another shall decay.

No Lilly, bright with painted Foliage, here,

Shall only languish, when Selinda's near:

A Fate revers'd no smiling Rose shall know,

Nor with reflected Luftre doubly glow -

Praises, which languish, when apply'd to You,

Where flatt'ring Schemes feem obvioufly true.

Yet fure your Sex is near to Flow'rs ally'd, Alike in Softness, and alike in Pride:

K

Foes

htly

fess ic.

R-

Foes to retreat, and ever fond to shine, Both rush to Danger, and the Shades decline; Expos'd, the short-liv'd Pageants of a Day, To painted Flies, or glitt'ring Fops a Prey : Chang'd with each Wind, nor one short Day the same, Each clouded Sky affects their tender Frame. In glaring Chloe's man-like Tafte and Mien, Are the gross splendors of the Tulip feen : Distant they strike, inelegantly gay, To the near View no pleasing Charms display. To form the Nymph a vulgar Wit must join, As coarfer Soils will most the Flow'r refine. Ophelia's Beauties let the Jasmine paint, Too faintly foft, too nicely elegant. Around, with feeming Sanctity, endu'd, The Paffion-flow'r may best express the Prude. Like the gay Rofe, too rigid Silvia thines, While, like it's guardian Thorn, her Virtue joins --Happy the Nymph ! from all their Failures free, Happy the Nymph! in whom their Charms agree.

Faint these Productions, till you bid disclose,
The Pink new Splendors, and fresh Tints the Rose:
And yet condemn not trivial Draughts like these,
Form'd to improve, and make ev'n Trisses please.

A Po

Thu

Whe

And

Garte

And

Le

On 7

And

More

Fond

A no

Amb

T

Amu

When

Or bl

Flow

-

Dawi

· And,

A

A Pow'r like Your's minuter Beauties warms,
And yet can blast the most aspiring Charms:
Thus at the Rays whence other Objects shine,
The Taper sickens, and it's Flames decline.
When by your Art the purple Vi'let lives,
And the pale Lilly sprightlier Charms receives:
Garters to me shall glow inferiour far,
And with less pleasing Lustre shine the Star.
Let serious Trissers, fond of Wealth or Fame,

me,

15-

e, ce.

le:

е,

2.

A

On Toils, like these, bestow too soft a Name;
Each gentler Art with wise Indisf'rence view,
And scorn one Trisse, millions to pursue:
More artful I, their specious Schemes deride,
Fond to please you, by you in these employ'd;
A nobler Task, or more sublime Desire
Ambition ne'er cou'd form, nor Pride inspires

The Sweets of tranquil Life, and rural Ease

Amuse securely, nor less justly please.

Where gentle Pleasure shews her milder Pow'r,

Or blooms in Fruit, or sparkles in the Flow'r;

Smiles in the Groves, the raptur'd Poet's Theme,

Flows in the Brook, his Naiad of the Stream;

Dawns, with each happier Stroke the Pencil gives,

And, in each livelier Image, smiling lives;

Is heard, when Silvia strikes the warbling Strings, Selinda speaks, or Philomela sings:

Breaths with the Morn; attends, propitious Maid,
The evining Ramble, and the noon-day Glade:
Some visionary Fair she cheats our View,
Then only vig'rous, when she's seen like You.

Yet Nature some for sprightlier Joys design'd,
For brighter Scenes, with nicer Care, resin'd.
When the gay Jewel radiant Streams supplies,
And vivid Brilliants meet your brighter Eyes;
When Dress and Pomp around the Fancy play,
By Fortune's dazling Beauties born away:
When Theatres for you the Scenes forego,
And the Box bows, obsequiously low:
How dull the Plan which Indolence has drawn,
The mosty Grotto, or the flow'ry Lawn!
Tho' roseate Scents in ev'ry Wind exhale,
And silvan Warblers charm in ev'ry Gale.

Of these be HER'S the Choice, whom all approve,
And whom, but those who envy, all must love:
By Nature model'd, by Experience taught,
To know, and pity ev'ry semale Fault:

Pleas'd

Plea

And

Whi

Yet

Fron

Yet

Not

A m

Wh

Wit

Juft

And

Suc

The

Yet

If e

HA

08

Pleas'd ev'n to hear her Sex's Virtues shewn, And blind to none's Perfections, but her own : Whilft, humble Fair ! of thefe too few the knows, Yet owns too many for the World's Repofe: From Wit's wild Petulance ferenely free, Yet bleft in all that Nature can decree. Not like a Fire, which, whilft it burns, alarms ; A modest Flame, that gently shines and warms : Whose Mind, in ev'ry Light, can Charms display, With Wisdom serious, and with Humour gay: Just as her Eyes in each bright Posture warm, And fiercely strike, or languishingly charm: Such are your Honours - mention'd to your Coft. Those least can hear them, who deserve them most: Yet ah! forgive - the less inventive Muse, If e'er the fing, a copious Theme must chuse.

October 7th, 1736.

as'd

ove.

gs,

1,

